NEGRO LEADERS IN JAIL.

Others Dismissed From Custody Yesterday and Banished.

Henry Gause, a negro, was arrested and committed to the county jail yesterday afternoon. He is charged with having snatched a double-barrelled shot-gun from a young white boy over in Brooklyn Thursday, while the fight was in progress between whites and blacks at Fourth and Harnett streets. He ran into the crowd of negroes and no doubt expected to use it in the fight against the white men.

After the disturbance was over he carried the gun to his house and sewed it up in the mattress of his bed. The officers, on a search warrant, made a tour of his premises, with these results and landed him in jail.

Beverly Scott, the obnoxious negro who some time before the election paraded the streets with a Winchester rifle and made open threats against white people, was also committed to jail for being implicated in instigating a riot.

AT THE CITY HO[illegible]

Negro Reported in Dying Co[illegible] Late Hour Last Night

Sam McFallon, one of the [illegible] wounded in the "Brooklyn" fi[illegible] day before yesterday, and who taken to the City Hospital about no[illegible] yesterday, was reported at a late hou[illegible] last night in a dying condition. McFallon, after being shot Thursday, was seen to crawl under the residence of Mrs. W. H. Strauss, on Fourth between Harnett and Swann streets, but in the intense excitement incident to the trouble, he was forgotten, until yesterday morning, when a search was made and he was discovered under the house seriously wounded. He was removed to the hospital where every attention possible was given him, but without avail, and he was expected to die at any moment at a very late hour last night.

Six other wounded negroes are receiving medical and surgical attention at the hospital, but it is likely these will all recover.

SIXTH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT.

The following is the official vote of the Sixth Congressional District, received by special telegrams to the MORNING STAR:

Bellamy's majority—5,895.

To City Subscribers.

City subscribers are earnestly requested to report promptly at the STAR office every failure of the carriers to deliver their papers. In all such cases steps will be taken to insure promp and regular delivery.

ORDER IS RESTORED.

The New City Government is Proving Thoroughly Effective.

THE MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

Only Military and Police Wanted for General Duty—R. H. Bunting, J. R. Melton and C. H. Gilbert and Others Exiled.

This city was remarkably quiet last night, the turmoil and terrible race conflict of Thursday considered.

The military were and are still doing police duty at the request of the city authorities; all five companies are on duty. Col. Walker Taylor is in command with Lieutenant Col. Geo. L. Morton as aide.

Military Parade Yesterday.

About three o'clock yesterday afternoon there was a military parade through many sections of the city. The five companies were in line and they had with them the two Colts rapid-fire guns mounted on wagons and the one-pounder Hotchkiss of the Naval Reserves. They were enthusiastically cheered by white people all along their line of march. The parade was a formidable demonstration of the resources for the maintenance of order now at hand.

No More Citizen's Guards Wanted.

Last night Col. A. M. Waddell, as Mayor, issued a proclamation dispensing with citizens, guards and calling upon all citizens to leave their guns at home. The proclamation is as follows:

The comparatively few persons in this city who seem disposed to abuse the opportunity of carrying arms which recent events afforded and who are doing some very feverish talking, are hereby notified that no further turbulence or disorderly conduct will be tolerated. They are notified that a regular police force will preserve order and every peaceable citizen, white and black will be protected in his person or property.

No armed patrol except those authorized by the Chief of Police will appear on the streets.

Justice is satisfied, vengeance is cruel and accursed.

A. M. WADDELL, Mayor.

The most sensational occurrence here yesterday was the sending of ex-Chief of Police Jno. R. Melton, Justice of the Peace R. H. Bunting, who is also United States Commissioner, and C. H. Gilbert, an ex-policeman, out of the city.

Grave threats of violence were made by certain people against the three men and they were given military protection at the Light Infantry armory. Later they were escorted to the A. C. L. depot and put upon the 3.30 P. M. Wilmington-Newbern train for transportation to a place of safety. When last heard from they were in Newbern; but a committee at that place met them at the depot and told them that they could not stop there. They went aboard the steamer Neuse, bound for Norfolk.

The necessity of sending Melton, Bunting and Gilbert out of the city as a safety precaution is very much regretted by the more conservative of our people, especially because one of them, R. H. Bunting, is a United States Commissioner, and respect for his office, they say, should have been a protection. However, his political record in co-operating with the negro element for the ascendency in local government had so embittered many people against them that it was feared that they could not be restrained from violence.

Aldermen in Called Session.

Late in the afternoon Mayor Waddell [illegible]lled a meeting of the new Board of [illegible]rmen. The purpose of the meet[illegible]s to devise ways and means to [illegible] lawlessness and stop the [illegible]inst "objectionable" citi[illegible] them into leaving the [illegible]clamation published [illegible] of the meeting. [illegible]nd closed doors. [illegible]o-day.

Co[illegible] will hold an inquest over the body of Josh Halsey, one of the negroes killed on Fourth street near Harnett Thursday, this morning at 10 o'clock. The jury will be as follows: Col. J. W. Atkinson, Mr. W. M. Cumming, Mr. E. P. Bailey, Mr. J. B. Huggins, Elijah Lane and J. W. Yarborough.

The bodies of only six negroes have come to the attention of the coroner. They are Charles Lindsey, George Gregory, Will Mazona, David Wright and John Townsell. The finding of the jury as to the cause of death in the case of John Halsey this morning will hold good in the other cases, so that only one inquest will be held.

Mayor Waddell told a STAR reporter last night that he is determined to maintain order in all sections and that he considers his present resources amply sufficient. The police patrol is at the request of the mayor. He thinks it will not be necessary to keep them on duty but a very few days.

Visiting and Local Military.

Wilmington is greatly indebted to the local and visiting military for the invaluable service they have and are now rendering.

Their's has been a hard and trying service and the people should and will not be laggards in the matter of expression of appreciation. In fact, already the ladies have taken the lead in kind offices and send all kinds of good things to eat and an abundance of it too, to the armories and other rendezvous of the military companies.

As the companies passed through the residence streets yesterday the piazzas of the many residences were in many instances crowded with ladies who waved handkerchiefs and manifested much appreciative enthusiasm.

More Offers of Aid.

In addition to the telegrams published in yesterday's STAR, offering assistance in the troubles here, the following were received by Hon. Jno. D. Bellamy, Congressman-elect from this district.

Col. S. D. McCall, of Charlotte, Chairman of the Democratic Executive Committee of Mecklenburg, tendered the services of 500 men from his county.

Judge A. W. Graham and Col. B. S. Royster offered 500 men from Oxford if their services were needed.

Capt. Wm. H. McLaurin, of Laurinburg, said that he could send 100 men from Richmond county, armed with Winchester rifles.

Mr. G. W. Meredith telegraphed that whatever assistance was needed would be furnished by Monroe and Union county.

In addition to these, Mr. W. F. Robertson received a telegram from Mr. James F. Glenn, stating that if help was needed fifty men from Gibson would come at a moment's notice.

Mr. E. S. Martin received a telegram from friends in Raleigh saying assistance would be sent if needed.

Messrs. Hammond and Davis, of Douglas, Ga., wired Mr. Bellamy to telegraph them if help was needed.

As a matter of course all these offers were highly appreciated, and Wilmington was fortunate is not having to call for assistance so promptly rendered.

DIDN'T STOP AT NEWBERN.

Melton, Gilbert and Bunting Took the Steamer Neuse for Norfolk—Negroes Jumped Off the Train.

[Special Star Telegram.]

NEWBERN, N. C., November 11.—Your discarded officials arrived here on the train to-night. They were ex-Chief Melton, Gilbert and Bunting. Two negroes with them jumped off the train on the outskirts of the city. The three whites inquired if it was safe here, and were told that it was a pretty warm locality. They took the steamer Neuse for Norfolk, and are now on the tossing waves

Manly, of the Record, is suspected of being here. Search of the steamer leaving to-night was made, but he was not found.

Chairman Simmons arrived from Raleigh to-night. He was met at the depot by the city band and escorted to the hotels. Fireworks were displayed in his h[illegible]r.

[By Associated Press.]

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 11—A special to the News and Observer from Newbern, N. C., says:

C. H. Gilbert, R. H. Bunting and Ex-Chief of police Melton, three of the white Republicans who were forced out of Wilmington, arrived here via the Atlantic Coast Line this afternoon. They were met at the depot by a committee of citizens and notified that their presence was not desired. They showed a ready willingness to leave and were accordingly escorted to the steamer Neuse, on which they sailed at six o'clock for Elizabeth City. Word has been sent to Elizabeth City and they will no doubt be kept moving when they arrive there.

LOCAL DOTS.

— It was reported yesterday that C. P. Lockey was in Fayetteville, waiting for the clouds to roll by.

— The crop year receipts of naval stores are almost identically the same as the receipts up to the same time last year.

— J. H. Sloan & Co. yesterday cleared the British steamer Acacia for Bremen, laden with 8,150 bales cotton, valued at $333,000.

— The regular, bona fide mail circulation of THE MORNING STAR is larger than the mail circulation of all other Wilmington Dailies combined.

— The sixty-third annual meeting of the stockholders of the Wilmington & Weldon Railroad Co., will be held at the office of the company at Wilmington, Wednesday, November 23, at 12 o'clock.

— The STAR is glad to learn that the condition of Mr. James H. Cowan, who was accidentally shot several days ago, is much improved and his friends hope that before very long he will be able to greet them on the streets.

— There was nothing doing in any of the Wilmington markets yesterday. However, Col. Cantwell, the efficient and accommodating manager of the Exchange, was at his post and had his regular reports posted on the boards.

— The receipts of cotton for the week ending yesterday were 30,393 bales against 27,840 bales for the same week last year. The 1898 crop receipts are 175,834 bales while the crop year receipts up to this date last year were 173,099 bales.

DANCY'S COUNSEL TO NEGROES.

WILMINGTON, N. C., Nov. 11, 1898.

To the Editor of the Star:

Every good citizen of this city regrets the difficulties of the past two days. Every good citizen is also anxious that perfect peace be restored at once. I therefore appeal to my own race to do nothing that will in the slightest degree inflame new passions or revive old ones. Let us be quiet, orderly, submissive to authority, and refrain from any utterance or conduct that will excite passion in others. Let us abstain from loud talking or undue excitement and go to and fro from our homes, where the Mayor and city authorities pledge us every protection. May God aid us in contributing our part to the restoration of peace. The whites, led by the Mayor, pledge us their aid in such a direction. Let us keep the peace at all hazards.

I am yours, for peace,
JNO. C. DANCY.

THE NEWS FROM RALEIGH.

Wilmington's Trouble an Absorbing Topic. Gov. Russell—The Ninth District. Chances in Crawford's Favor.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

RALEIGH, N. C., Nov. 11.

The riot at Wilmington was the all-absorbing topic on the streets here yesterday evening. The white people of Raleigh universally remarked that the citizens of Wilmington had been long-suffering and they were glad that deliverance had at last come.

The amount subscribed for the grand jollification next Tuesday night will reach $500. A grand parade will march through the city. The jollification will begin at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and continue until late in the night. All places of business and residences will be illuminated and thousands of torches furnished. Large crowds will attend from Johnston and other adjoining counties.

It is freely predicted that Governor Russell will be on his good behavior henceforth, in view of the Democratic Legislature which is elected. The Governor appears to have accepted the result of the election in a better humor than his associates.

The official count will be necessary to positively settle the Ninth Congressional district. Both sides claim it by about 125, but the chances are all in Crawford's favor. Pearson's majority was reduced in every county except Polk.

The executive committee of the University will meet to-day.

[Special Star Telegrams.]

A self-confessed swindler were arrested in the Yarborough hotel this evening. He registered as H. A. Clayton, Omaha, Neb. This afternoon he called on Rev. Dr. Marshall, of Christ Church, introduced himself as W. A. Burton, and obtained a note of introductiou to Rev. Dr. Smedes, of St. Mary's. He then visited Dr. Smedes, presented Mr. Marshall's note and told him he wanted to enter his sister in the school, presenting a check for $75 on the City National Bank of Norfolk, payable to W. A. Burton, signed by W. H. Doyle and endorsed by J. S Wynne of this city, to pay fifty dollars on his sister's tuition. Dr. Smedes paid him $25 as change. Burton then saw Rev. Dr. Daniels, and attempted the same game on President Dinwiddie, of Peace Institute, but failed. Mr. Wynne, when notified, declared that he had endorsed no checks, and the swindler was arrested while preparing to leave the city. Burton was seen in jail. He says he was a drug clerk in Philadelphia and became addicted to morphine. He acknowledges working the same game in Richmond and other cities.

DUNN'S OFFER OF AID.

Ready to Send 250 Men to Wilmington—Work of the Star in the Canvass.

[Star Correspondence.]

Major Wm. H. Bernard, Wilmington, N. C.

DEAR SIR—I waited one day after the election and started out, but when the report came of the trouble in Wilmington, my friends wired me to come back, as Dunn had offered 250 men to assist you all.

The county clerk of Harnett has signed up the returns and there is no contention.

We are all proud, and your friends here are loud in their praise of the glorious work of the STAR.

They say that the STAR won the Sixth district, especially.

Dunn is still in readiness and anxious.

Very truly,
JAS. PEARSALL.

NASH COUNTY.

Shooting Affair at Gold Hill—Death of Mr. Thos. P. Braswell.

[Special Star Correspondence.]

GOLD ROCK, N. C., Nov. 10—Old Nash county is once more a white man's country, going Democratic by over five hundred majority. We are glad that white supremacy will again reign in the old North State.

Mr. Thos. P. Braswell, Jr., of Battleboro, died this A. M. at 7:30, from yellow chill. He was a very prominent young man in society and business circles. He was about 23 years old.

A few days ago a young man named Anderson shot Geo. Moore at Hales store in Halifax county, Moore tried to shoot Anderson first and Anderson got under the counter, and when he arose he had a pistol and fired at Moore, the shot taking effect in his lower jaw. A second shot went through Moore's head and the third missed entirely. Moore needed all he got, his wound is not serious but very painful.

…e press of our sister Southern
…s took a keen interest in the
…gress of the late political cam-
…aign in this State, and some of them showed the interest they took by sending correspondents to study the situation and write it up so that it might be generally understood. One of them, the Atlanta Constitution, not only did that but circulated in this State thousands of copies of the papers containing the letters of its correspondent, thus aiding us by helping to familiarize the people of the Western and Central sections with the condition of the East. This was rendering inestimable service. There is not one of them that does not rejoice in the victory and not one that does not fully comprehend what that victory means. The following are a few expressions of congratulation, the first from the Richmond State:

"The news from North Carolina is glorious. The negro party has been completely routed. Russellism, which is but another name for negroism, is done for, and that, too, without riot and bloodshed.

"The result is precisely as forecasted in the Times. The whites had only to assert themselves, and the rest was easy. We congratulate our brethren across the border on their splendid victory. It means peace and good order and good government in the good old North State. There is no negro problem in North Carolina to-day.

The Baltimore Sun, in an editorial on the elections at large, says:

"Altogether, yesterday was a sad but not a glorious day for the Republican party. New York, the great Empire State, has shown that it cannot be counted as Republican, even under circumstances most favorable to that party, and Maryland has rebuked Republican maladministration with as much significance as it has rebuked Democratic wro… recent years. T… North Carolin… negro …

…ey bore in patience the culminating insult and outrage perpetrated by the editor of the negro paper when he wrote and published that vile slander on the white women of the State, but they never once relinquished the resolve to send him beyond the limits of this city and county whatever the result of the election might be.

In pursuance of that resolve the citizens held the meeting which demanded that he leave the city within the time stated, and that the newspaper plant be removed beyond the limits of this city. Had this been done that would have been the end of it, as far as he was concerned, but it was not done and the storm broke, and the white men did what they said they would do and of what they had given ample notice.

But then it might have ended there if misguided, rash and ill advised negroes had not in their blind folly, carried defiance to the extent of shooting white men whose mission was to preserve peace and order, thus shedding the first blood and precipitating the conflict that cost lives, lives that might not have been lost had these negroes listened to cooler counsels, and not foolishly thought they could shoot down white men with impunity.

For a while it looked as if chaos might prevail, but there was no chaos. The white men were prepared for any emergency, and were organized, it being fully understood that their action was to preserve the peace and protect the people and property from the lawless. Even where the excitement was the highest cool heads were at the front, and no man who behaved properly had a hair of his head injured by any man who came to the defence of law and order. When a peaceably-disposed negro man or woman was found upon the patrolled streets, night or day, they were protected, and if ap-

The loss is about $3,000 with no insurance.

Two negroes who were beating their way on one of the trains were seriously injured and a third is fatally injured. —— Mr. Elam P. Cochrane, one of the oldest and best known farmers of his section, died last night at his home in Black Creek Mr. Cochrane was about 75 years of age.

— Charlotte Observer: Mr. J. S. Grier, of Providence, met with a heavy loss Wednesday night, in the destruction, by fire, of his gin house, eight or ten bales of cotton not ginned and 3,000 bushels of cotton seed.

Mr. S. F. Grier, his son, was in charge of the gin. The work during the day had been unusually heavy, and it was necessary to work at night. It was between 10 and 11 o'clock when the fire occurred It was caused by the upsetting of a lamp, and in a few minutes was beyond control, although thirty five or forty men were doing all in their power to save the building and its contents. A hundred bales of cotton were saved by it being rolled away. The conflagration was seen for miles around.

Mr. Grier had recently refitted the gin house with new machinery, new engine, gin press, ect., which makes the loss twice ar heavy as it would otherwise have been.

CURRENT COMMENT.

—— The triumph of the white man's party in North Carolina is just what was expected. Negro rule is impossible in the South. So long as the negroes vote in a body, every now and then the whites will be caught napping and the negro party will slip into power. But as soon as the whites become aroused, as is sure to be the case, they will without ceremony assert themselves and shake things off.—Manchester, Va., Leader Dem.

——Americans who visit the Military Department of Santiago are impressed first of all and most strongly by the rare fertility and varied productions of the soil, and later by the absolute carelessness and idleness of the inhabitants, who have been so richly dowered by Nature: The Cuban will not work, it is said, and an immense area of this garden spot of earth is wasted in consequence. Not only a new system of government but also a new laboring population may be necessary in order to realize fully the hope and promise of a regenerated Cuba.—Philadelphia Record, Dem.

UNINTENTIONAL INSULTS.

Persons Must Be Very Careful When In a Foreign Country.

A short time back a complaint was received by the authorities through the Chinese legation that the gentleman representing her majesty in China had been guilty of conduct unbecoming an embassador and a gentleman; that he had insulted the Chinese cabinet. Investigation, however, showed that the only conduct of which he had been guilty was thumping the table at which he was sitting to emphasize a remark. Of course no notice was taken of the affair, but, all the same, the diplomatists of China were offended, for in that country it is an insult to the assembled company to thump the table.

It only shows how careful one should be in a foreign country. In England, if a friend is visiting another and stays to dinner, he may ask for the loan of a hairbrush without giving offense, but in Hungary he may not. To attempt to borrow that useful article is one of the greatest insults which can be offered to a Hungarian and one which will in most cases cause a duel.

In France there are several insults which the unwary foreigner may offer without knowing it. For example, he may be visiting a friend and may put his hat upon the bed. This is a grievous form of insult, but why it is not known. It is a very ancient one, and so probably results from an old superstition.

Again, there are two ways of pouring out wine in France, as everywhere else. One of these is to hold the bottle so that while pouring the thumb is facing the tablecloth. The second way is to hold the hand reversed—that is, with the knuckles downward—and this is a great insult to the assembled guests and the host, a far greater insult than drinking a health in water, and that is pretty serious in France.

Germany has some curious forms of insult. To begin with, to offer a rose or any other flower without any green or leaves with it to a lady is to deeply insult her, though why this should be so is not known precisely.

The German students are formed into corps, some of which are fighting corps and others not. Each corps has its distinctive cap, and when a member of one meets another in the street it is etiquette for each to doff his cap. Should the other not respond a complaint is made to his corps, and a duel is fought—a real duel, with sabers or pistols, not the fencing duel which is pastime in Germany, just as foiling or single stick is in England—for the insult is nearly the worst that can be offered.

There is one worse, and that is spilling or flicking beer over another student purposely. No apology will wipe out this offense. Nothing will, except a duel to the death or a duel which is continued until one of the combatants is too badly wounded to continue the fight. A minor insult is to refuse to drink with a student if invited or to refuse to respond with "Prosit" when he raises his glass and says, "Ich Komme vor," but this is more a breach of good manners than an actual insult.

We might finish with two Spanish examples of curious insults in South America. The first of these is to refuse to smoke a cigarette which another man offers you after he has had it in his mouth, and the second is to refuse drink out of the same glass that a man has just drunk from, or, worse still, to wipe it before drinking.—London Tit-Bits.

The Hyacinth.

For more than a century, from 1559 to 1680, the tulip had an undisputed reign till a rival appeared in the shape of a double hyacinth. Rea says of the "hyacinth, or jacinth:" It is "of divers sorts, and many of them of small esteem." Some double varieties were, however, known at that time, three being mentioned by Bauhin, but the double kind from which modern ones have been derived was raised at the end of the seventeenth century by Peter Voorhelm, a celebrated Dutch florist. The hyacinth was never quite such a rage as the tulip, though during the height of its popularity great prices were paid for bulbs in Holland. It is said as much as 2,000 florins, or about £150, was given for one root by some enthusiastic Dutch collector.—Longman's Magazine.

Her Own Fault.

Mrs. Goodwin—John, we will have to get rid of that parrot. His language is getting to be simply awful.

A QUEEN OF THE SEAS.

The Record Breaking Trips of the Famous Old Red Jacket.

In Maine they dwell with pride upon the performance of the Red Jacket, built in Rockland in 1853 by Deacon George Thomas. The Red Jacket made the run from New York to Liverpool in 13 days 1 hour and 25 minutes in the month of January, 1854. This was the best trip up to that time, and it probably never has been beaten, although a faster trip, by a few hours, was claimed for the Boston ship Lightning. When the Red Jacket started on her trip, the record was held by the ship Sovereign of the Seas, built in East Boston by Donald McKay—13 days 19 hours.

The Red Jacket was 234 feet keel, 44 feet 7 inches beam, 16 feet lower hold, 8 feet between decks, 225 feet over all and measured 2,500 tons, making her the largest ship afloat at that time. There was great excitement, both in New York and in Liverpool, over the first trip of the Red Jacket, for it was known all over the maritime world that she had been built expressly to beat the record of the Sovereign of the Seas. She was also to set a mark for the Live Yankee, a ship built at Rockland at about the same time, and for several others. Large amounts of money were wagered on the result of her passage.

The Live Yankee had a hard passage and came nowhere near the Red Jacket's time.

As illustrating the shrewdness of Deacon Thomas, it is related that, hearing that several other builders were about to construct ships on the same lines as the Red Jacket, he altered his molds slightly, putting in five extra frames amidships. This probably helped the speed of the Red Jacket. At any rate, in that respect she differed from her rivals.

A Rockland man, who was in Liverpool when the Red Jacket arrived there, gives an interesting account of her triumphal entry into the great English seaport. The excitement was intense—scarcely less than in New York. A day before the Yankee clipper was expected to arrive the American steamer came in and reported the ship as just outside, and in a few hours the Red Jacket appeared at the harbor's mouth. Hundreds of cheering sailors had boarded her, and two tugs had lines to the ship, although her speed was so great that they could not keep the hawsers taut. She came flying up the harbor with every stitch drawing in a brisk northwester, and, greatly to the astonishment of the natives, instead of coming to an anchor and being laid up to the pier head by tugs, she came about, threw her yards hard aback and actually laid herself up!

About a year afterward the clipper ship Lightning was built by Donald McKay at East Boston for an English firm for the express purpose of beating the Red Jacket's time between New York and Liverpool, and it was claimed that she accomplished the feat by a few hours, but the claim has always been disputed, and it is likely that the Red Jacket still holds the record.

The Red Jacket never returned to this country under the American flag, having been sold almost as soon as she arrived on the other side for $150,000 to an Australian packet line. Extensive alterations were made in her to suit the needs of the passenger and freight business between Liverpool and Melbourne, and she made many fast passages in that service. She was again sold when her rate ran out to Henry Milvain of Newcastle, England, and ended her days as a lumber lugger between Quebec and the United Kingdom.—Lewiston Journal.

Simple Language.

Simple language is on all accounts preferable to high sounding words when ordinary matters are discussed. We wish that young people could be taught that it does not add a foot to the stature of a house to call it a "residence;" that a church or even a meeting house is as venerable as "the sacred edifice;" that it is no more genteel to say "retire" than go to bed; that the garment so covered with side plaitings and so quickly frayed out along the pavement is really a gown and not a "promenade costume," that it need not bring a blush to the fair cheek of even Mr. Popsnap's young person to say leg instead of "limb," when leg is meant; that the supper at an evening party is not "the entertainment," and that there are well founded objections to the use of "nicely" as an adjective describing one's health.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Without Regard For Their Comfort.

Addlepate—There is one thing I cawn't understand, doncherno!

Noddlekins—What's that?

Addlepate—Why, when we stop to consideh—aw—how uncomfortable it is in a crowd—why, aw—I cawn't see why it is that there are always more people in a crowd than there are where there is no crowd!—Hartford Courant.

A Queer Fad.

The Philadelphia Record tells of a rich man of that city who has a queer fad. He neither gives nor accepts any money that has ever previously been used as legal tender. Whether he fears contamination in the exchange or only likes to handle the bright new coins and bills for the pleasure of it is not divulged. But, whatever the reason, the rule is absolute. He carries with him a stock of undimmed coins of every denomination up to half dollars, beyond that crisp bills to the amount he considers necessary. That which he buys he pays for with the exact change, and should he by chance be caught without means of such precision the seller is entitled to the full amount given him in excess of his bill. It is a manifest measure no doubt and very interesting; but to cleave to it strictly one must needs have obliging bankers or a lien on the mint.

From New Zealand.

REEFTON, New Zealand, Nov. 23, 1898.

I am very well pleased to state that since I took the agency of Chamberlain's medicines the sale has been very large, more especially of the Cough Remedy. In two years I have sold more of this particular remedy than of all other makes for the previous five years. As to its efficacy, I have been informed by scores of persons of the good results they have received from it, and know its value from the use of it in my own household. It is so pleasant to take that we have to place the bottle beyond the reach of the children.

WOLSELEY AND THE TROOPERS.

The Great English Military Commander's Way of Making Friends.

An incident happened some years ago in the cafe of a restaurant of rather good class in the city of Dublin, which is an apt illustration of how a gentleman can place himself on a footing of equality with an inferior in station without sacrificing his dignity. At that time, and probably the same narrow minded spirit and ultra snobbishness exists there still, it was the habit for the proprietors of the better class barrooms to refuse to serve drinks to private soldiers. It was immaterial how well behaved they might be or how they might rank as noncommissioned officers, the rule was inflexible.

On the occasion referred to two finely set up men of a dragoon regiment, both wearing long service stripes and the chevrons of troop sergeant, entered this place, and approaching the bar, asked for drinks. They were refused rather curtly. They said nothing, but, turning on their heels, prepared to leave. The fine appearance of the two men had attracted the attention of the guests, among whom were three or four who were sitting together quietly smoking at one of the tables. The men had almost reached the door when one of the smokers arose, calling out sharply, "Halt!"

The habit of obedience to the command caused the soldiers to stop, although they did not acknowledge the right to be halted by any one in civilian clothes. The man who had been smoking walked up to the bar and said to the attendant:

"I can purchase what drink I require here, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir," replied the man.

"Then immediately serve these two gentlemen (emphasizing the word) with whatever they demand."

Turning to the soldiers, he said: "Gentlemen, will you drink with me?"

"With pleasure, sir," said one, replying for both. They drank together, and when the soldiers were about leaving one of them, turning to the man in civilian clothes, said:

"Excuse me, sir, but we should like to know the name of the gentleman to whom we owe this courtesy."

The man smiled. "Certainly. My name is Wolseley—Colonel Wolseley."

In a trice two pair of heels came together with a click, and two left arms were brought up with precision to a salute, which Wolseley as formally returned. He turned away with a smile, and as the two sergeants marched out an outburst of hand claps testified to the cordial appreciation of every witness of the scene. That was a good many years ago. Wolseley had a capital war record even then, but he has since seen much service and is now better known to the world as Viscount Wolseley, commander in chief of the English army —Philadelphia Times.

A Narrow Escape.

Thankful words written by Mrs. Ada E. Hart, of Groton, S. C.: "Was taken with a bad cold, which settled on my lungs; cough set in, and finally terminated in consumption. Four doctors gave me up, saying I could live but a short time. I gave myself up to my Savior, determined if I could not stay with my friends on earth I would meet my absent ones above. My husband was advised to get Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I gave it a trial, and took in all eight bottles. It has cured me, and thank God I am saved and now a well and healthy woman." Trial bottles free at R. R. BELLAMY'S drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.00. Guaranteed or price refunded †

The Best Plaster.

A piece of flannel dampened with Chamberlain's Pain Balm and bound on to the affected parts is superior to any plaster. When troubled with a pain in the chest or side, or a lame back, give it a trial. You are certain to be more than pleased with the prompt relief which it affords. Pain Balm is also a certain cure for rheumatism. For sale by R. R. BELLAMY, Druggist. †

COTTON MARKETS.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NEW YORK, November 11.—The marked improvement in speculation on the Cotton Exchange yesterday led the trade to hope for continued activity with broadening outside investment interest. To-day's market, however, proved an exceptionally tame affair, transactions for the most part being for the adjusting of accounts, while fluctuations were confined to six points. To begin with, Liverpool made a greater response to our weakness of yesterday than the rank and file here had anticipated, which, with promise of a heavy movement, sent prices off 1@2 points on the opening. This loss was subsequently recovered on scattered demand from local shorts. What London Drinks.

In a recent case at the Kensington petty sessions the well known refreshment contractors, Messrs. Spiers & Pond, caterers to the Victorian exhibition, were summoned at the instigation of the Kensington vestry for selling a sample of brandy and two samples of whisky which were not of the nature, substance and quality of the article demanded. The defense set up was the extraordinary one that in one case a barmaid had emptied into the brandy and whisky decanters the remaining portion of a glass of whisky and water left on the counter by customers. In the case of the other sample the barmaid had, in consequence of a complaint which had been made to her that the stock of the bar under her charge was unsatisfactory, put water into the siphon which supplied the tap from which the sample of whisky was purchased. The bench inflicted a penalty of £15. Apart from the fact that the spirits were adulterated, the practice of emptying the leavings of customers' glasses into the vessels holding the spirits for public supply is a disgusting and filthy and dangerous one, and the vestry of Kensington deserve the unqualified thanks of the public for the action which they took.—London Lancet.

A HYGIENIC HOME.

My wife and I are trying hard
To live on healthful diet.
We read the food chart by the yard
And run our kitchen by it.
We've banished from our bills of fare
All that such guides condemn.
True hygiene is all our care
As planned and taught by them.

For breakfast coffee is tabooed,
Hot cakes and eggs forbidden
And milk, since it is oft imbued
With germs profuse, though hidden.
Bread is unwholesome; so is steak.
Submissive to our lot,
Oatmeal and graham gems we take,
And drink boiled water hot.

For dinner soup will never do,
And oysters typhoid nourish.
Salads, entrees and ices, too,
Are mere dyspeptic flourish.
Potatoes (by the last advice)
Are poisonous, we're told.
We eat rare meat, chopped fine, with rice
And drink boiled water cold.

For supper—some professors teach
'Tis best to go without it,
But since discretion's left to each,
We take our choice about it.
On chicken, waffles, tea and cake
We are forbid to feed.
But gluten wafers, cocoa (weak)
And prunes are all we need.

It grieves us much our friends to view
So reckless in their diet.
Our wholesome menu we pursue
And beg of them to try it.
But appetite's ungodly sway
Their nature so enthralls,
We cannot get a guest to stay
Within our healthful walls!

English Hostility to Popular Education.

An American visitor to England who spends some little time in the country, says J. N. Larned in The Atlantic, can hardly fail to become conscious of three serious facts: (1) That there is a strong class feeling against much education for those who are looked on as underlings and servants, a feeling more prevalent and more pronounced than the shamefaced sentiment of like meanness that is whispered in some snobbish American circles. (2) That the "school rate" seems to be the most begrudged of English taxes, the most sharply criticised, the most grumbled at, and this to a degree for which there seems nothing comparable in America. (3) That the[illegible]tion to secular schools, the church and ostensi[illegible]d by a desire for reli[illegible]truction in the schools, is [illegible]pported in reality by the [illegible]ments indicated above. [illegible]oking, therefore, to the in[illegible] democratic conditions [illegible]evitable in England, the [illegible] and factiousness of dis[illegible]at appear among its citi[illegible]ning the vital matter of [illegible]ducation are ominous of [illegible] nation, and gravely lessen [illegible]e of holding, under the reign of democracy, the high place to which it rose under an aristocratic regime.

The Economy of Art.

Charles Keene's lines are as few as can be. He is most economical in this respect and loves to leave as much white paper as he can, but one feels in his best work that one line more or one line less would impair the perfection of the whole; that of all the many directions, curves and thicknesses they might have taken he has inevitably hit upon just the right one. He has beaten all previous records in this respect—in this country at least. I heard a celebrated French painter say, "He is a great man, you. Charles Keene, he take a pen and ink and a bit of paper, and wiz a half dozen strokes he know 'ow to frame a gust of wind!" I think myself that Leech could frame a gust of wind as effectually as Keene, by the sheer force of his untaught natural instinct, of his genius, but not with the deftness, this economy of material, this certainty of execution, this consummate knowledge of effect.—George Du Maurier in Harper's Magazine.

A Suggestive Admission.

"Here you've been telling me all along," said the bright faced young wife, "what a wonderful cook your mother was. And now your Aunt Jane has just told me that your father was a chronic dyspeptic."

"Well, you see," the young husband murmured, with a deep sigh, "mother learned by practicing on father."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

There is no such term as nom de plume in the French language. The French Notes and Queries (L'Intermediare) was referred to and decided the point. "Our term nom de guerre," it said, "quite sufficiently applies to the case in point."

CARE ON A WARSHIP.

HOW HIGH EXPLOSIVES ARE STORED ON A BRITISH VESSEL.

Precautions That Are Taken to Prevent Accidents—The Magazines Are All Massive Iron and Steel Tanks Built Separately Into the Ship.

The British navy has not been without its Maine disasters, though fortunately these have been unattended by any questions of foul play, and they have taught us a lesson. The last such catastrophe was in 1889, when the gunboat Dotterel was sunk and 145 lives lost through an explosion in one of her magazines.

Since that time great attention has been paid to the storing of high explosives on board all the ships of our navy. The magazines are now huge iron tanks built separately into the ship. The sides, bottom and crown of these are made of thick steel plates weighing ten pounds to the square foot. These plates are lap jointed and strongly riveted.

Should any side of the back of a coal bunker be exposed, that side is built of plates that weigh 12½ pounds to the square foot. This additional strength is in order to prevent any explosion of coal gas that may occur in the bunker from tearing open the magazine. Further, the plating is stiffened with heavy bars that make all parts of the surface of equal strength. Should the magazine be placed near the engines or in any other place where there is a high temperature, it is coated with asbestus. Electricity is used for lighting purposes.

All the lights are in what are called "light boxes," placed outside, the light penetrating into the magazine itself through thick glass illuminators, which are protected by gratings of brass wire. The keys of these boxes are kept by the gunner of the ship. Near them is a stock of candles ready for use in case the electric current should fail. Entrance to the magazine is from the top, but out of what is termed the handling room. The hatch of this is in line with the crown of the magazine, and the floor of the room is lead covered.

For ventilating purposes air is pumped in at the bottom and passes out through a specially constructed uptake, but on very dry days air is let into the magazine naturally in order to prevent too much moisture accumulating on the cases and thus causing the powder to deteriorate. In an engagement the magazines would be kept closed down, so as to prevent the enemy's shot from entering them, and air would be pumped in or the men working inside could live but a very few minutes. Before entering the magazine the men have to leave behind them their knives, pipes and matches and to put on special boots that are studded with brass nails.

With the old fashioned powder a spark caused by the friction of a nail in one's boot with the floor was sufficient to cause an explosion. Nowadays there is far less danger of accident. Many of the explosives now used will only ignite by detonation. Prismatic and pebble powders if set on fire will frizzle away like a fuse, while cordite, if handled with ordinary care, is quite harmless.

All the bays—i. e., recesses—are marked with the number of cases that are to be stowed in them, and they are provided with strong wooden uprights to prevent the cases from being thrown out of place by the motion of the ship. The doors of all the magazines open outward, so that if in a violent storm the cases broke loose they would not block the entrance. No fuses, tubes or other articles that contain their own means of ignition are ever stowed in magazines. All such articles are placed in special storerooms far away from the powder. Quick firing ammunition cartridges for machine guns and rifles and dry gun cotton also have their separate compartments.

All magazines are fitted with a flooding arrangement, so that, should the ship catch fire, they can be at once filled with water. No one but a responsible officer is ever allowed to handle the keys, and he must first obtain permission from the captain. The heaviest charges are placed nearest the doors. In the old days the powder was aimed to carry the cartridges from the magazine to the guns in a case. Now the ammunition goes up a hydraulic lift that works on armored shoots. Carrying it would be an impossibility, as some of the charges weigh 960 pounds. Tanks containing fresh water and drinking cups are fixed in the handling room for the use of the men, and all the floors are sprinkled with water before work begins.

Speaking tubes lead from outside the magazines—which, by the way, are usually below the water line—to the gun decks, the bridge and the conning tower.

There is a quarterly examination of the dry gun cotton to ascertain whether acid is accumulating. If it is, the explosive is at once saturated with water. Wet gun cotton, being a very safe material, is kept in an ordinary storeroom and is weighed periodically to detect deterioration, a plug being at the same time removed in order that gas may escape. The "warheads" of the Whitehead torpedoes, being filled with wet gun cotton, are stowed by themselves and tested in the manner just described. But the "pistols," which contain dry gun cotton, and the detonators for igniting the wet gun cotton in the torpedoes are placed together in a compartment that can be flooded if necessary.

The only other dangerous explosives carried by our warships are the filled shells, which are given a place to themselves. None but the most stubborn fuses are fitted to these, unless they are at the gun and ready to be fired. Their dangerous nature is indicated by their red painted heads and the broad red band around them. Seamen are trained to handle them with the utmost care. Even signal lights and rockets are kept carefully out of the way of irresponsible persons. In fact, every possible precaution is taken to prevent an accident with explosives occurring on any of our warships.—Invention.

When Americans Man the Guns.

The war between the United States and Spain is a copy on a very reduced scale and with some slight modifications of a war between England and France. It is not my purpose in this article to work out a detailed comparison. I can only suggest it. The great British superiority in battleships and unarmored cruisers as against France is faithfully reproduced in the American navy as against Spain. The great French advantage in armored cruisers finds its parallel in the Spanish navy. Even in torpedo craft the numerical equality which exists between England and France is repeated with some correctness in the two combatant navies. Thus all conditions are favorable to a trial of our race. Upon the conduct of Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley's officers and bluejackets depends not merely the honor of the United States, but the very existence of the British empire. If the men who are hourly expecting battle in the Caribbean falter, if they show any want of courage or sailormanship—which God forbid—then let us be certain that an attack will be delivered upon England by her enemies, who will conclude, and not unjustly, that the military qualities of the Anglo-Saxon have declined under the depressing burden of civilization. And as this is the greatest problem to be settled in the war, so we shall hope and pray that our race may emerge with glory from the test.—Pall Mall Gazette.

"Uncle Sam" Tarwater.

"Uncle Sam" Tarwater, who has reached the ninety-second year of his age, was in Orrick Saturday afternoon getting his pension papers made out. He is the only state pensioner left and receives $100 yearly for wounds received in the Mormon war of 1888 and 1889. He was in the battle of Crooked River, fought in the autumn of 1888, ten miles east of Lathrop, Clinton county. In this fight David Patton, commander of the Mormons from Far West, a settlement 16 miles northeast of Lathrop, was killed. He was called Captain Fearnaught, and his men were armed with corn knives, which they used as sabers, and during the fight "Uncle Sam" was almost hacked to pieces and left on the field for dead. He still enjoys good health and delights to tell how he fought the Mormons.—Orrick Times.

A Yard of Ale.

"At Eton," says the London Globe, "any one who is so minded may at 'tap' essay the feat of drinking a yard of ale. This is only a pint in liquid, but a yard in linear measure, being contained in a long horn shaped glass, so constructed that unless the drinker drinks with care most of the contents are spilled over him. A book is kept of the time in which the yard can be drunk, and for years until lately the 'record' was ten seconds. This is an iconoclastic age, however, and some one lately disposed of his three feet of ale in nine seconds."

The volume of trade has ...he greatest ever known in Octo... ...nd the greatest ever known in any ...nth except December, 1892. The ...ecord on November thus far shows ...clearings 10.4 per cent. larger than last year and 9.3 per cent. larger than in 1892. The railroad earnings in October have been 5.2 per cent. larger than last year and 8 0 per cent. larger than in 1892 Foreign trade shows an increase of 25 per cent. in October in exports, with 38 per cent. in exports from New York last week, while imports showed a gain of only 22 per cent. in October and credits against foreign bankers were piling up at an inconvenient rate. There was and is absolutely no anxiety about the currency, and the Treasury is only too strong. When enormous exports of products are considered, it seems quite impossible for the country to meet with serious monetary trouble.

Wheat declined nearly a cent, but recovered all the loss.

Corn has but slightly changed in price, with exports of 2,062 331 bushels, against 2.474,641 last year and an increase of more than a half in Western receipts.

Cotton remains at the lowest price on record, with heavy receipts and without large milling demand.

Iron production November 1 was 228,933 tons weekly, against 213,635 October 1st, and a decrease is seen of 35,241 in stocks unsold outside the holdings of the great steel companies, indicating an actual consumption of 1,019,646 tons in October, about 283 tons daily greater than the largest ever shown in any previous month on record, The export demand is beyond all dreams: 40,000 tons rails for northern and 100,000 tons plate besides 4,500 tons billets from Pittsburg alone, with great quantities of bars, rods, wire and other finished products. The works are generally filled with orders, including many from ocean and lake ship yards, and many for cars, with seasonable demand for other products.

Wool sales for the past week were only 3,735,000 pounds at three chief Eastern markets and were secured by concessions at all markets. It is growing in the minds of holders of wool at the East that the supply of foreign and domestic wool on hand is much greater than has heretofore been supposed. Cotton goods are on the whole in better demand although denims are slightly lower and little can be said of an encourging character as to the demand for staple goods for domestic use.

Failures for the week were 211 in the United States against 291 last year, and 26 in Canada against 24 last year.

"This morning notice was given James Tolbert, whose wife is postmaster at McCormick, that he would be allowed thirty-six hours to leave, but that his wife and children will be cared for and protected. Although James and Albert are not known to have had anything to do with the recent troubles, it is said James left, going no one knows where. Mrs. Tolbert, it is stated, is making preparations to leave. It is supposed that James was accompanied to a point of safety by armed negroes, a band of them being reported in the country today.

To-day a band of white men started from Abbeville for the hom... of J. M. Collins, a brother-in-law of R. R. Tolbert, who is said to have been a Republican leader in this section. They go to tell him that he must leave the county. There is no intimation that they will use violence to make him leave.

"Tom Tolbert, who was badly wounded in the original encounter, is now at Abbeville. Late reports indicate that his death is expected at any time.

"All things considered it looks tonight as if the trouble is at an end and no more need be expected unless some of the Tolberts venture back to Greenwood county in a short time."

THE INFANTA MARIA TERESA.

British Admiralty Authorities at Nassau Propose to take Possession of the Vessel as a Derelict.

By Cable to the Morning Star

NASSAU, NEW PROVIDENCE, Nov. 11.—Wreckers who have arrived here have brought with them stores from the stranded vessel off Cat Island, which established beyond doubt that she is the Infanta Maria Teresa. As the vessel is looked upon as being a derelict, the wreckers claim the right to seize the stores which can be saved. They report that the water is up to her between decks, that she has a list to starboard, her side is not damaged, but that she is dismasted. The vessel lies between two reefs, on a smooth bottom and has her anchor ont.

The British admirality authorities here are going to take possession of the Maria Teresa as a derelict. The American consul has protested against this course, claiming everything less the salvage. The steamer Antilla is leaving here for Cat Island, with customs officers and police on board.

Opinion differs as to the chance of saving the cruiser. Although she has been aground since Thursday the Maria Teresa rests in an easy position and the weather is moderate.

...roes Heavily Armed by Mine Operators—White Miners Shot—Citizens Arming for Protection.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

PANA, ILL., November 11.—The imported negro non-Union miners here are becoming reckless and the Union white miners are growing restless. Troop B, of Bloomington, remains on duty here, but almost nightly in the Flat Hall district the negro residents practice shooting at any white man that passes. The negroes have been heavily armed by the mine operators. Last night the residences of several white miners were shot into by Winchesters in the hands of the colored men A white widow's cottage was pierced repeatedly by bullets, several charges barely missing her three children The militia say they cannot ...

...AVES ON THE TRACK.

Caused a Terrible Collision on the Lehigh Valley Road—Five Train Men Killed and Others Injured.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WILKESBARRE, PENNA., Nov. 11—The Buffalo Express on the Lehigh Valley road, which left New York at 8:30 last night, ran into the New York and Philadelphia Express, going east, on Wilkesbarre mountain this morning. The killed and wounded are: Killed, William Toxheimer, fireman; Fred Glasser, fireman; J. C. McGregor, express messenger; Jacob Engleman, brakeman; John McLally, engineer. Injured: D. E. Price, engineer, New York, badly scalded; John Rohblinger, engineer, Wilkesbarre, badly scalded; Chas. Morgan, Express messenger, scalded about head; John Shanfield, brakeman, Maunch Chunk, cut about head.

The train was going east, was composed of an express car, baggage, day coach and three sleepers, and had the right of way on a single track. The Buffalo Express, in charge of Engineer Rohblinger, had to stop on a siding on the mountain to let the New York Express pass. As Rohblinger approached the siding he discovered that the air-brakes would not work. The train was moving about thirty miles an hour down a 90-foot grade. The engineer whistled frantically for the hand-brakes. He knew that the other train was about due. He reversed his engine and stuck to his post, but could not avert the collision. In less than a minute the express train from the west, drawn by two heavy engines, hove in sight. A terrible crash followed on a curve in a deep cut.

An investigation showed that a heavy wind storm prevailed on the mountain last night, which caused the leaves from the forest to accumulate on the track The engines ploughed into these leaves, which clogged the braking apparatus.

SEVENTH ARMY CORPS.

Gen. Lee Rejoins His Command—Accompanied by the Governor of Virginia.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

SAVANNAH, GA., Nov. 11.—Gen. Fitzhugh Lee arrived in Savannah this morning to rejoin the Seventh Army Corps, after an absence of three weeks. He was accompanied by Gov. J. Hoge Tyler, of Virginia, and three of his staff, Col. Tennant, Col. W. O. Skellon and Col. C. O'B. Cowardin. The Fourth Virginia regiment met the party at the Plant System depot and escorted them to the Desota hotel. In the afternoon Gov. Tyler and party were given a review of the Second brigade of the Second division at the Avondale tract, Gen. H. C. Harbrouck commanding. The Virginian regiment is in the brigade.

Speeches were made after the review by Gov. Tyler, Gen. Lee, Col. Curtis Guild, Jr., inspector general and Col. Cowardin. The party will witness a review of the entire corps to-morrow afternoon and will return to Richmond to-morrow night.

Government Resolved to Maintain Spain's Sovereignty Over the Islands.

AN ARBITRATOR SUGGESTED.

Emperor William of Germany Who is Expected to Visit Madrid on His Return from the Holy Land—Newspaper Comment on Situation.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

MADRID, Nov. 11.—The Heraldo this morning asserts that the Spanish government has resolved to maintain Spain's sovereignty in the Philippine islands, and it adds that it has been suggested that Emperor William of Germany, who is expected to visit Cadiz and Madrid soon, on his way back to Germany from the Holy Land, be asked to arbitrate the questions in dispute between Spain and the United States. in the event of the peace commissions of the respective countries, now in session in Paris, failing to come to an agreement upon the terms of the proposed treaty of peace.

The newspapers assert that the government of Spain is sending instructions to its commissioners at Paris not to yield on the question of Spanish sovereignty over the Philippine islands, which is asserted to be entirely outside of the protocol, wherefore the commissioners are not authorized to discuss it. It is further asserted that the Spanish government will declare that it has not been authorized by the Cortes to negotiate the cession of the Philippine islands.

The Liberal advises the Spanish peace commissioners to leave Paris after lodging a protest against the demands of the Americans.

The Spanish newspapers are angry at the Marquis of Salisbury's speech at the Guild Hall banquet on Wednesday night. They declare it to have been "merely a glorification of brute strength and a denial of the rights of the weaker."

THE NEXT HOUSE.

Republican Chairman Babcock Claims a Clear Majority of Thirteen.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—At a late hour to-night Chairman Babcock, said that the latest advices received by the committee made no change in the political complexion of the next House of Representatives. The Republicans, he said, would have 185 members certainly, giving them a clear majority of 13. These figures were the same as those he gave to the Associated Press early in the day.

Secretary Kerr, of the Democratic Congressional Committee, has gone to Pennsylvania. No additional statement from him, therefore, could be obtained.

A Narrow Escape.

One day a mother who had been to a country house near Marseilles was returning at twilight to the city with her son, a child of 8 years, who had been put in a peach basket borne by a donkey, and the mother, fearing the child might catch cold (it was in November), had covered him with a thick brown shawl. Tired with running around the country all day, cozy and warm under the thick shawl, the child was soon asleep and hidden by the sides of the basket. There is a local custom house at the gates of Marseilles, and when the inspector surmises that any package contains contraband articles he thrusts a sharp steel pick through it. He was preparing to do this with the basket when the mother, some distance behind, saw his intention and shrieked out that her son was in the basket. It was Adolphe Thiers.—Exchange.

Ancient Posters.

It is probably the general impression that posters and handbills are modern inventions, but it has been discovered that the ancient Romans practiced this method of advertising. In digging at Herculaneum there was brought to light a pillar covered with bills, one on top of another. The paste used to stick them was made of gum arabic. The bills, when separated and examined, were found to be programmes and announcements of public meetings and even election proclamations.—New York Tribune.

SEABOARD AIR LINE.

Directors' Meeting—All the Officers Re-elected Without Opposition.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

ATLANTA, GA., November 11.—The directors of the Seaboard Air Line Railroad Company held their annual meeting here to-day. No changes were made in the officers, and all were re-elected without opposition. Immediately after the meeting of the Seaboard officials, a meeting of the directors of the Lawrenceville and Logansville Railroad was held. H. C. Hoffman, president of the Seaboard, was elected to fill the same position on the Lawrenceville and Logansville. Among those present at the meetings were President Hoffman and E. St. John, vice president and genral manager.

FINAL TRIAL TRIP.

Torpedo Boat Destroyer Faraguat a Little Faster Than 30 Knots.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

SAN FRANCISCO, November 11.—The torpedo boat destroyer Faraguat has made what will probably be her final trial trip. She steamed at full speed for an hour without a single hitch and accomplished the task laid out for her on the specifications on which she was built. She is a little faster than 30 knots, but just how much will not be known until the report of the trial has been submitted to Washington. The members of the board have expressed themselves as being well satisfied with her performance.

DID NOT REACH RICHMOND.

Three of the Gang Went to Norfolk Others Left the Train at Manchester.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

RICHMOND, November 11 —The information here is that six of the negroes expelled from Wilmington, N. C., were on the Richmond-bound train today; that three of them went from Rocky Mount, N. C., to Norfolk, and that the other three got off at Manchester, just across the river from this city, before the train stopped here. Policemen were at the depot in this city, prepared to arrest the negroes had they gotten off to remain here.

PINCIO LOVE MATCHES.

How Some Roman Youths Select and Woo Their Brides.

Among the myriad charms of Rome are the patches of fertility which spring up here and there amid the sea of brick and mortar. The most conspicuous of these is the Pincio and its surroundings, a veritable rus in urbe. Here nature has ably seconded human skill. The altitude of the gardens and the magnificent view they afford make them unequaled by any other public park. True their area is small, but what of that? It brings its visitors all the more in touch with one another, and this is the secret of its charm for the Romans, whatever may be its attraction for strangers, for, let the truth be told, the Pincio is the great flirting ground of Rome. Nor should this horrify the reader. It is intended en tout bien tout honneur.

It is probable that the Pincio sees the inception of half the marriages in Rome. It is a curious sociological fact, but the explanation of it is simple. It has been commented upon by numberless writers that Italians are exclusive, though not in the usually accepted sense of the word. They are proverbially open and friendly, especially to strangers, the commercial value of whose visits to their land they appreciate, but this cordiality, even to their own countrymen, has its limit. In no country more than in Italy is a man's home his castle, and, except in the highest circles and where there is no poverty to be concealed, he is chary of his hospitality. This is especially true of Rome and Naples. Therefore, if neither she nor her parents receive many visitors, how is the Roman girl of the bourgeoise class who is not "in society" to meet the inevitable lover for whose advent and her consequent emancipation from parental tyranny she longs more ardently than young women usually do? The answer is, "The Pincio."

On Thursdays and Sundays, when the band plays—uncommonly well, by the way—and the park is in consequence crowded to overflowing, the signorina who is the fortunate possessor of a becoming costume dons it and demurely accompanies her mother to the municipal pleasure ground, where each expends 10 centimes for the temporary right to a comfortable chair ingeniously constructed as to be springy, though fashioned entirely of iron. If she be a wise maiden, she will so maneuver that the chairs will be placed on the main pathway where every one must pass. This being achieved, she may await developments, and, if she have pretensions to beauty, she will not long be left in anticipation. The young men who pass will gaze at her approvingly, and finally one, to whom she may especially appeal, will detach himself from the crowd and take up his stand before her. Thus is initiated the first chapter of the romance. From that moment, without a word or sign, and even with scarcely a look from her, he becomes her swain and faithful knight. Week after week he sees her at the Pincio. He even follows her about the streets. Having ascertained her abode and her name, he generally soon manages to find a mutual friend who performs the introduction. The rest is obvious. Or, if they do not happen to have acquaintances in common, when the silent lovemaking has progressed far enough, a demand for the damsel's hand is made directly to her parent. Then, as a sedate married couple, they revisit together the scene of their wooing. This procedure, as I have said, is extremely common and is considered proper among respectable members of the middle class. I have been told that marriages thus made turn out, as a rule, as well as could be desired.—New York Commercial.

English Incivility.

Alphonse Daudet used to tell this anecdote to illustrate the incivility of some Englishmen:

"I was on my wedding journey, and an Englishman was with my wife and myself in the compartment in the train. The air in the car was close, and I wanted the window lowered. But he insisted it should be kept closed. I told him that I wanted some fresh air, that my wife needed it, but he persisted in keeping the window shut. At his incivility I thrust my elbow through the pane, at the same time exclaiming, 'Keep the air away from us now if you can,' and the fellow glowered like a bull."

The Retort Courteous.

The proprietor of a new Washington hotel celebrated its opening by inviting a large number of distingues to a supper. At the table a distinguished judge of diminutive stature took offense at a jocular remark of the landlord and, handing him $1, said, "Sir, I wish to pay for my supper." The landlord handed him back 50 cents, saying quietly, "Children half price."—What to Eat.

A Severe Punishment.

A Washington man who put in ten years of soldiering in the regular army of the United States, five years of it on the frontier with the cavalry in Indian campaigning and the other five in the heavy artillery, was recently appointed a captain and assistant adjutant general in the volunteer service, and he is now attached to the staff of General Miles. He is a man of ability and great unpretentiousness. A few days before he donned his uniform he went over to Fort McHenry, Baltimore, on official business. A war department clerk went along with him. When the two men arrived at Fort McHenry, the new captain pointed to a long shell road that runs through the post.

"Do you see that road?" asked the captain.

"Yes."

"Well, I made that whole road myself. It was as tough a job as I ever performed and as bitter a period, but it did me a heap of good. I was serving with an artillery regiment, part of which was stationed here, and one night when I was on guard the officer of the day crept up on me unawares and found me sitting down on a pile of gunny sacks, neglecting my post. I got a general court martial for neglect of duty on post and was sentenced to six months in the guardhouse. My sentence tickled the old provost sergeant mightily, for he was in need of a steady prisoner to build that road. I built it and crunched many a million oyster shells building it. I never find myself feeling cheaty and high and mighty, and all that sort of thing, that I don't shut my eyes and think of this shell road over in Fort McHenry."—Washington Star.

AN UNWILLING RECRUIT.

The Departure of a Young Sicilian Who Had Been Drafted Into the Army.

More than one American family of today can remember the time when in the season of the country's need the young son of the house went to the war, but probably not one American family can quite enter into the spirit of the scene described by Mr. William Agnew Paton in his "Picturesque Sicily."

Near La Chiesa del Carmine Mr. Paton saw a young recruit, newly drafted, taking leave of his family. He was very young, hardly of an age to fit him for military service. This may perhaps serve as an excuse for the fact that, in spite of his new uniform, he stood in the middle of the road crying like a baby as he poured his tale of woe into the ears of his younger brothers and sisters and possibly his cousins also, for some 10 or 12 children were grouped round him, standing or kneeling upon the pavement, all of them weeping bitterly.

The boy's mother, her eyes red and her hair disheveled, was delivering to a dozen or more of her friends a tirade against the injustice of compelling her boy to serve in the royal army. Opinion seemed unanimous, for all gave their unequivocal and vociferous assent to her propositions and complaints.

The lane was full of women. There were few men, only those being there who were too old to work. The windows and doors of the houses were occupied by other women, all gesticulating and all very angry.

When the sergeant, a good natured fellow, who had permitted his charge to halt on his way to the railway station, motioned the young recruit to come away, the scene in the lane beggared description. The children gave loud voice to their sorrow; the mother frantically kissed her boy's face, hands and clothing, and even by throwing herself upon the ground managed to kiss his feet.

Then, rising to her knees, she clinched both hands, and, lifting them toward heaven, seemed to be calling down vengeance on the sergeant and all set in authority over him who had part or lot in the taking of her son from her.

When last seen, she was being led into her house by her sympathizing friends, while the children, crying and gesticulating, followed the young recruit to the corner of the street, where they shricked a last farewell to the newly made soldier who trudged beside the sergeant weeping aloud.

The Method of Manual Training.

The method by which manual training arouses and fosters a many sided interest and stimulates desire is by giving children something to do and by allowing such a free play of choice and individuality both in the something and in the doing that at the very first possible moment the activity shall be self directed. When this point is once gained, the work of education has begun. Where the will is weak, as in the case of poor, anæmic children, the interest may soon flag, may indeed sputter and go quite out, and all this is very discouraging.

But the interest must simply be aroused and stimulated afresh. Never, however great the seeming extremity, must the interest and desire of the teacher be made to do duty for that of the child, for the moment this occurs the work of education ceases, and a meaningless, unpsychological process takes its place.—C. Hanford Henderson in Popular Science.

Couch and Cowper.

A. T. Quiller-Couch, the Cornish novelist and essayist, has great difficulty in persuading people that his name is pronounced "Cooch," and says that, though he never invented the pronunciation, he can only prevail on a few friends (outside of Cornwall) to believe in it. The poet Cowper, who called himself Cooper, had a similar difficulty. "Couch" (Cooch), by the way, has nothing to do with repose It is a Celtic name and signifies "red."

WINGS OF A DOVE.

At sunset, when the rosy light was dying
Far down the pathway of the west,
I saw a lonely dove in silence flying
To be at rest.

Pilgrim of air, I cried, could I but borrow
Thy wandering wings, thy freedom blest,
I'd fly away from every careful sorrow
And find my rest.

But when the dusk a filmy veil was weaving,
Back came the dove to seek her nest.
Deep in the forest where her mate was grieving—
There was true rest.

Peace, heart of mine, no longer sigh to wander!
Lose not thy life in fruitless quest.
There are no happy islands over yonder.
Come home and rest!

—Rev. Dr. Henry Van Dyke's "The Builders and Other Poems."

Paris During a Revolution.

The boulevard, which we followed, presented a strange spectacle. There was hardly a soul to be seen, although it was nearly 9 o'clock in the morning, and one heard not the slightest sound of a human voice, but all the little sentry boxes which stand along this endless avenue seemed to move about and totter upon their bases, and from time to time one of them would fall with a crash, while the great trees along the curb came tumbling down into the roadway as though of their own accord. These acts of destruction were the acts of isolated individuals, who went about their business silently, regularly and hurriedly, preparing in this way the materials for the barricade which others were to erect. Nothing ever seemed to me more to resemble the carrying on of an industry, and, as a matter of fact, for the greater number of these men it was nothing less. The instinct of disorder had given them the taste for it, and their experience of so many former insurrections the practice. I do not know that during the whole course of the day I was so keenly struck as in passing through this solitude in which one saw, so to speak, the worst passions of mankind at play, without the good ones appearing. I would rather have met in the same place a furious crowd, and I remember that, calling Languinais' attention to those tottering edifices and falling trees, I gave vent to the phrase which had long been on my lips and said: "Believe me, this time it is no longer a riot. It is a revolution."—"Recollections of De Tocqueville."

A Telling Answer.

The author of "Thoughts For the People" tells a suggestive anecdote of a man who scandalized an entire community by spending most of his time indoors, engaged in reading and study. This waste of golden hours gave peculiar pain to an energetic farmer, who finally asked the new neighbor why he did not work for a living, like other men. The apparent idler replied in Yankee fashion by a question about a plow he had seen in the farmer's barn.

"It's the best plow ever made," the farmer answered. "It does twice the work of an old fashioned plow. But I don't see what that has to do with the question of your earning your living."

"I invented that plow," said the other calmly.

It is seldom possible to fix the exact value of another man's achievements. It is never safe to estimate his work by the noise he makes. A prisoner in the treadmill is one of the most active men on earth, but what does his industry profit? Great works grow slowly and in silence, and the man who promises least may some day command the most potent forces.

Her Cat From Carnac.

A woman who recently returned from Egypt brought with her a terra cotta figure of a cat which she saw with her own eyes dug out of the ruins of Karnac. She paid a good price for it and was delighted with her purchase. Unfortunately the other day it was knocked down and smashed. Its head was found to be stuffed with old numbers of the Birmingham (England) Post.—Newburyport News.

THE BLACK DEATH.

THAT FEARFUL PLAGUE THAT FOLLOWS IN THE WAKE OF WAR.

In the Fourteenth Century It Swept the Whole of Europe, Killing Twenty-five Millions of People In Three Years—The Pestilence In London.

The plague, or pestilence, that mysterious and fearful visitation which has moved its hosts in the wake of armies to slay more than war itself, is supposed to have first originated among the dense masses of people who crowded together in the great cities of Asia and Egypt, or who formed the encampment of Xerxes, Cyrus and Tamerlane the Tartar. It probably sprang from the impurity which must have existed in the midst of such vast gatherings and in part also from leaving the unburied dead upon the field of battle. At any rate the germs of this fearful human poison have always been most active where conditions similar to those have prevailed. It has always been war and the march of armies that has spread it broadcast over the world from time to time, and as war became less frequent and less worldwide the frequency and extent of these ravages have lessened also.

The first recorded outbreak of the plague in Europe occurred in the sixteenth century. It came from lower Egypt. This was the first lapping of the wave that reached into the east again, there to stay its movement so far as the west was concerned until 544 A. D., when the returning legions of the Emperor Justinian brought it again into the western world from the battlefields of Persia. Constantinople was the first place it attacked. Here in a single day as many as 10,000 persons are said to have fallen victims to it. But the plague did not stop with Constantinople. It had found a too congenial soil in Europe, which was little else than one great battlefield at the time. It was carried into Gaul, where it followed close in the wake of the Frankish armies, and from Gaul it moved into Italy, with the Lombards, and so devastated the country as to leave it entirely at the mercy of the invaders.

The various crusades, which extended over a space of about 200 years, no doubt did much to hold the pestilence in Europe, for they served to keep open the channels of intercourse between the east and the west. Periodic epidemics were common during their continuance, and these seem to have culminated in the fourteenth century with what is known in history as the black death. The black death was more fatal to human life than any other single cause since the world began. The havoc of war was nothing in comparison to it. It swept the whole of Europe, leaving in its path such misery and destitution as the world had never known. It killed in three years some 25,000,000 of people. Such figures stagger the comprehension, but the records of the time cannot be doubted. The entire population of Europe is estimated to have been about 100,000,000—kept down as it was by the constant warfare—and of these 100,000,000 at least a fourth perished.

The ravages of the plague in Italy, where it came in the track of the war of the Guelphs and Ghibellines, was particularly disastrous to mankind. It raged with terrible fury in Naples, where 60,000 persons are said to have died. It fell upon Pisa and seven out of every ten perished. It utterly and forever destroyed the prosperity of Siena. Florence also suffered severely, while 100,000 of the inhabitants of Venice were literally wiped off the face of the earth. From Italy it moved into France, where the mortality was almost as great; in Paris alone 50,000 people died from it. One of the worst features presented by the history of the black death was the cruel persecution it aroused against the Jews. They were supposed to have infected the air in some mysterious manner, and they were accused of having poisoned the wells and springs. In Strassburg 2,000 of them were buried alive in their own burial ground.

The order of the Flagellanto arose at this time, coming from the belief that the sins of the world had at last brought down the wrath of heaven. It was the beginning of the so called Hundred Years' war that carried the black death into England, where in London its victims numbered 100,000. When at last the plague had worked its ravages, it doubled back over its course, to disappear in the east. In 1845 it appeared again in England, first among the soldiers of Richmond after the battle of Bosworth Field, and when the victorious army marched to London the plague went with them to work its havoc there. As long as it lasted the mortality was as great as that caused by the black death half a century before. Five thousand people died in five weeks, and then the plague left London as suddenly as it had appeared there, to sweep over the rest of England.

In Scotland the plague of 1568 came immediately after the battle of Langside, when Queen Mary was dethroned, but no records of the mortality it occasioned seem to have been preserved. The plague visited London in 1675. This followed after the civil war which ended with the death of Charles II, but so many years intervened that it is impossible to trace any connection between the two events. In modern wars danger from the plague seems gradually to have lessened, perhaps as a result of better sanitary conditions maintained by the armies of today.—Philadelphia Press.

A Filtering Medium.

Absorbent cotton is highly recommended as a filtering medium. It acts rapidly and is therefore of great value in filtering volatile elements. For ordinary household use it is specially recommended because of its inexpensiveness and ease of management. A large funnel must be provided, and the cotton is pressed more or less firmly into the neck, according to the substance to be passed through. Some liquids are much more difficult to manage than others, and this must of course be allowed for. A little practice will show the housewife just how closely the cotton must be packed to insure success in filtering the various liquids with which she has to deal. —New York Ledger.

The Man of Moderate Means.

"I suppose there can be no doubt," said the man of moderate means, "that a man can do better work on good food. By that I mean the best of food, the things that delight the taste and satisfy the stomach and suffuse the whole being with joy, to the exclusion of all care. But I imagine that these things can be fed to advantage only to the men who are ready and willing to work and whose ouptut can be improved thereby. They might be lost on others, whom they would only lull to sleep and who can be kept at work only by the rasping stimulant of poverty."—New York Sun.

FOOLED THE PREMIER.

An Experiment Which Made Matters Worse Than They Had Been.

A story, the truth of which is vouched for in high quarters, is told concerning the "manners" of the political members of a small country renowned for its ancient courage. The prime minister gave a reception to meet some distinguished Englishmen. The assemblage consisted solely of the strangers, the members of the parliament and the prime minister. During the course of the evening one of the more distinguished of the English guests discovered that his watch had been taken. He went to his host and informed him of his loss, adding that he especially prized the watch, as it was a present to him from the king of the country whose guest he had the honor to be at that moment.

The prime minister saw at once that there was only one thing to be done, and, asking for silence, explained the situation to the company. He said that no doubt some one had yielded to the temptation of the moment, but that when they learned that the missing article was the gift of their king he was sure their loyalty, if nothing else, would prompt them to restore it to its owner. In order that the culprit's honor might be preserved and the country saved from a scandal, he said, the lights would be lowered for five minutes and the guests would defile past the writing table, which would give an opportunity for the delinquent to place the watch there.

Upon this the room was darkened for the stipulated time. On the lights being turned up it was found that the watch had not been placed on the writing table, but that a valuable silver inkstand, also a gift of the king to his prime minister, was missing as well.—London Telegraph.

BOTANIC BLOOD BALM (B. B. B.)

The Great Blood Remedy.

The above named diseases are all due to diseased germs floating around in the blood. These germs make their appearance in the form of sores on the body at the point of least resistance. To effect a cure the poison must be got out of the blood.

Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) is the only remedy which has really effected a permanent cure of these terrible diseases. B. B. B. is a powerful vegetable Blood remedy, which, when it mixes with the diseased blood, causes the humors and germs to leave the body through the pores of the skin and excretory organs. Mr. B. F. Price, a Philadelphia druggist, recently wrote us that when people afflicted with Blood Diseases called for a remedy he invariably advised them to use B. B. B., taking the medicine regularly, and he never knew of a case that failed of a permanent cure. It has been on the market now for 17 years, and we have recent letters from patients who were cured years ago, saying that they are as well as can be at the present time, with no trace of the disease left. This proves that the poison was entirely driven out of the system, and hence permanent cure effected. It is the cure that counts. We will let some of the patients speak for themselves.

ECZEMA CURED BY B. B. B.

Julia E. Johnson Stafford's P. O., S. C., says: "I had suffered thirteen years with eczema, and was at times confined to my bed. The itching was terrible. My son-in-law got me one-half dozen bottles of Botanic Blood Balm, which entirely cured me, and I ask you to publish this for the benefit of others suffering in like manner."

BLOOD POISON CURED BY B. B. B.

MAXEY, GA., Jan. 8.

"For twelve years I suffered from blood poison. My face and shoulders became a mass of corruption, and the disease began to eat my skull bones. It was said I must surely die, but I tried a bottle of Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.) with benefit, and using eight or ten bottles more I became sound and well, and have been so for twelve months. Hundreds of scars can be seen on me, and I extend heartfelt thanks for so valuable a remedy. ROBERT WARD."

OFFENSIVE ULCERS CURED BY B. B. B.

"One Summer, several years ago, while railroading in Mississippi, I became badly affected with malarial blood poison, that impaired my health for more than two years. Several offensive ulcers appeared on my legs, and nothing seemed to give permanent relief until I took six bottles of Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.), which cured me entirely.

TEXAS SCROFULA CURED.

DEXTER, TEXAS, March 16.

"BLOOD BALM CO.: We had a case of scrofula in our neighborhood of long standing, who had used all patent medicines which were recommended to him; besides this, he also had several doctors attending him, but everything failed to effect any good. He grew worse every day, and had not left his bed for the last six months. His name is Servenka, and we got a neighbor of his to persuade him to try Botanic Blood Balm (B. B. B.), and after using only one bottle he left his bed for the first time in six months.

"To the present time he has used less than three bottles, and he is walking around visiting his friends in the neighborhood. All scrofulous sores are healing finely, and you never saw a happier man than he is.

"Nearly everybody for miles around has heard of this wonderful cure, and all who need a blood remedy call for the B. B. B.

LIEDKE BROS., Merchants."

More testimonials of the wonderful cure of Blood Diseases by B. B. B. are printed in a little book on Blood Diseases, which is sent free of charge to any one. B. B. B. is for sale by all druggists at $1.00 per large bottle. It cures the smallest pimple to the worst case of scrofula or Blood Poison. Six bottles of B. B. B. sent, charges prepaid, to any one on receipt of $5.00. Address,

SUNDAY MORNING, NOVEMBER 13.

THE GOVERNMENT WILL NOT INTERFERE.

Conclusion of a Conference of Administration Officials Concerning the South Carolina Race Trouble.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Except in unlooked for events in the race rioting in the Carolinas, it is altogether improbable that the government will interfere by force or otherwise. The attorney general had another conference with the President this morning in regard to the matter, and the conclusion was promptly reached that as the demonstrations in Greenwood county, S. C., were not directed against the collector of customs in the performance of his duties, as such, the government had no authority under the constitution or laws to exercise its Federal authority. Collector Tolbert was shot while away from his home and on business entirely disconnected from that of his office, and under these circumstances the government, it is said, had not a shadow of right to interfere If the collector had been shot in the discharge of his official duties, and in an effort to enforce the laws of the United States, the case would have been very different and the duty of the government would have been clear. In the present case, however, it is said that the lawless acts of the mob were not directed against the execution of laws of the United States but against the individual. The case would have been the same had Tolbert been shot on the highway by a robber. Administration officials have no sympathy with the Carolina rioters and regard their acts with abhorance, but up to this time, it is said, there is no evidence that would warrant any interference by the government.

The attorney general late last night sent the following telegram to the assistant United States attorney at Anderson, near Phœnix, S. C.:

"You will at once take energetic steps, incurring the necessary expense, to ascertain the exact situation in Greenwood and adjacent counties, and report the same immediately by wire to me, with a view of advising me whether any such condition of insurrection or disturbance exists as justifies the Federal authorities in interfering to suppress it.

Signed "JOHN W. GRIGGS,
"Attorney General."

To the above the following response has been received:

"Anderson, S C., Nov. 11.—Attorney General, Washington.—My information is much rioting near Greenwood, at Phœnix, Tuesday and Wednesday. Several negroes killed and wounded. One white man killed and several wounded. Thursday there was also some rioting, but the condition quieter. My information, is quiet there community very much From all information I have think Federal intervention too late now. It seems the mobs were especially anxious to get the Tolberts, and am informed that they are now an safely out of their reach. Intense excitement still prevails there, but no violence now. Will wire further to morrow.

AL CABINET COUNCIL.

ing to the fact that a cabinet g on Saturday is quite unusual, conjectural reports were afloat e urgent and critical character subject considered, but the s of the cabinet stated most ly at the close of the session thing of a critical or disturbing r had developed at Paris, or n under consideration. The a cablegram to be sent peace commission at Paris esponse to one from Judge was framed. It involved new or immediate crisis. The nish commissioners had asked until next week in which to make to the note recently submitted mericans. Although the adtion is becoming somewhat t of the delays to the work of missioners, occasioned by the tination of the Spaniards, the n this instance will not be obto, though it may meet with an tation that the discussion has ed a point where definite results expected without further unnecesy loss of time.

Admiral Schley's visit brought up e Porto Rico question. The Admiral, who was accompanied by Secretary Long, was invited to participate in the discussion, the report was an interesting recital of all of the circumstances of American occupation, but the report itself was not given out.

Concerning Cuba a definite conclusion was arrived at by the cabinet to open a port on the western coast of the island, probably at Cienfuegos about December 1, in order to allow the larger planters to get in their machinery and begin to work on the new sugar crop.

The situation in the Carolinas was referred to, only incidentally, the attorney general making the statement that no evidence had yet reached him which would warrant the Federal government in interfering,

ILLINOIS MINE TROUBLE.

Differences With Striking Miners Settled. Work Will be Resumed.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

CARLINVILLE, ILL., November 12.—The differences between the Chicago-Virden Coal Company at Virden and Auburn and the striking miners have been settled and the shafts will soon be in operation. The company agreed to pay the State scale of forty cents per ton, but did not want to tear down the stockade. Finally the company accepted the offer of the miners that they would take it down and charge the company nothing for the labor.

GERMAN EMPEROR'S VISIT TO SPAIN.

Spanish Government Seeking to Dispose of Its Few Remaining Colonies.

THAT TRIP TO JERUSALEM.

Emperor William's Attempt to Reunite German Protestantism—The Project Utterly Miscarried—An Anglo-German Understanding.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

BERLIN, Nov. 12.—It is understood in diplomatic circles here that Spain, after the conclusion of a treaty of peace with the United States, will try to dispose of her few remaining colonies, notably the Mariana Islands, the Carolino Island and the Pala Islands and itis reported that the Spanish government has already been cautiously approached by Germany for the purpose of ascertaining how much these groups would be worth to Germany. The officials of the foreign office here admit that the acquisition of these Spanish colonies would be of considerable value to Germany, in view of their proximity to Germany's Australasian possessions, but they give no inkling as to their intentions in the matter.

Emperor William's Visit.

The announcement that Emperor William will call at Spanish ports on his way home from the Holy Land, has given rise to all sorts of political speculations, especially in view of the statement that the Queen Regent of Spain has decided to send the Duke of Soto Mayor, with an autograph letter to Carthagena, inviting the German Emperor to visit Madrid and to rejoin the imperial yacht Hohenzollern later at Cadiz. Such an invitation, however, could only be made in accordance with court etiquette, if its acceptance had been previously secured, and it is certain up to the present that this acceptance has not been obtained. On the contrary, while it is evident that Spain is keenly desirous that the Emperor should visit Madrid, and in fact, attempts are already being made to make capital out of the mere fact that he will visit Spanish ports, the foreign office here is doing everything to throw cold water on the idea that his majesty had any political end in view in touching at Spanish ports. The foreign office appears to be anxious to avoid any steps calculated to wound public feeling in the United States, which, it is fully recognized here, would resent a visit of the Emperor to the Spanish ports while the peace negotiations are still unconcluded.

His Trip to Jerusalem.

It has now become known that Emperor William, among other objects in view, desired to utilize his trip to Jerusalem to reunite German Protestantism, now split into a score of factions, and establish his office of Summis Episcopis, now held merely over the Evangelical Church of Prussia, over the whole of Protestant Germany. The Emperor firmly believed he could realize his plan, but nevertheless the project utterly miscarried. The Grand Duke of Baden represented to the Emperor that existing circumstances made it impossible for the other Protestant princes of Germany to yield to the Emperor's wishes.

It is said that Emperor William, during his visit to Jerusalem, was greatly struck by the many French flags flying, and remarked: "France has a great many buildings here, but there is room for others."

An Extraordinary Incident.

It transpires that an extraordinary incident occurred when the Emperor left Constantinople. The Sultan was returning from bidding farewell to his guests, when a man rushed through the escort and placed a large linen bundle in the carriage at the Sultan's feet. Prince Abdel Kader, the second son of the Sultan, who was with the latter in the carriage, jumped to his feet and shouted: "There, they are going to murder my father!"

There was a scene of intense excitement until an aide de camp snatched the bundle out of the carrage and found that instead of explosives, it contained a baby. The man who placed the bundle in the carriage was arrested. He declared he was a poor official, that he had not received any salary for months, and that he was on the verge of starvation, and threw the child into the carriage in order to draw the Sultan's attention to his condition. The Sultan, on hearing of the man's story, ordered his salary to be paid.

Anglo-German Understanding.

Whether it is solely or partially due to the Anglo-German understanding it is an undeniable fact that there is a decidedly friendly feeling for Great Britain in the leading circles here, not only among government officials, but among the navy and army officers. Nevertheless, a sensation was created by the complete right about turn upon the part of the Kreut Zeitung, hitherto the most venomous foe of Great Britain, but which this week came out with a strongly pro-British editorial in which it said "We have for years past resisted all plans aiming at an Anglo German treaty, giving as our reasons that England is not strong enough on land or sea to be helpful to us. But circumstances have fundamentally changed. England has made extraordinary efforts with her army and navy, and the Soudan campaign has shown that England is able to stand her ground in the field. With such an England one can do business. While we have no reason to seek for a treaty, we heartily approve of an understanding."

This utterance on the part of a newspaper which has the closest relations with the court and army is deeply significant. It is said the ex-Empress of Germany was made acquainted by the Emperor, before he left for the Holy Land, with his resolution to resume negotiations with Great Britain for the purpose of broadening and extending the Anglo-German understanding. The German minister of foreign affairs, Baron Von Buelow, who, of all the members of the cabinet, exerts the greatest influence over the Emperor, warmly supports the pro-British policy, as an offset to the coldness upon the part of Russia.

SPANISH TROOPS ARE MUTINOUS.

Revolt of Part of the Forces Stationed in the City of Havana.

SOME REGIMENTS DISBANDED

Regulars Refuse to Fire or Charge Upon Their Brother Soldiers When Ordered to Do So—Uprisings Among Other Regiments.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

HAVANA, Nov. 12, 3.30 P. M.—The Orden Publico force, cavalry and infantry regiments, was disbanded yesterday after a part payment of arrears had been made.

The trouble leading to the disbandment of the force began with the protest of the Third company on Thursday morning before the Palace. At that time Gen. Solana, chief of staff of Gen. Blanco, addressed the men and led them back to their quarters on Compostela street, where the men gave cheers for Spain and General Blanco. General Arolas, military governor of Havana, ordered 4.000 troops, quartered in the outskirts of Havana, to march into the city, where they arrived at night fall. At the head of a portion of these troops General Arolas marched toward the orden público quarters, where the protesting Third company was drawn up in the streets under orders. The regulars refused to charge or fire upon their brother soldiers when ordered to do so, in the hope of intimidating the men, who were finally persuaded to retire to their quarters.

Minor uprisings occurred during the night among other regiments. Barring these incidents, the military have maintained thorough control of the city. The sum total of the casualties Thursday night was Lieutenant Colonel, General Aroyalas, wounded in the hand, and another wounded seriously. The city has again resumed its normal tranquility, although the regulars are still quartered in the principal streets and parks as a precautionary measure.

THE PEACE COMMISSIONERS.

Spaniards Busily Engaged in Preparing Documents to Be Submitted at the Next Session.

By Cable to the Morning Star.

PARIS, November 12.—It is now believed that the next meeting of the peace commissioners may be postponed until Tuesday, though no definite decision has been arrived at on the subject.

The Spanish commissioners are still busily engaged in the preparation of the documents which they will submit at the next session of the commissions, and it is understood that their presentation will cover matters which render their careful preparation unusually important.

Some of the original papers and transcripts necessary for the next presentation of Spain's case will probably not arrive here until too late on Monday to permit of a meeting that day, which, of course, would necessitate the postponement of the next of the commissions until Tuesday.

Spain has held and may still insist that she effectually reserved her Philippine sovereignty from discussion or disturbance by the United States, in a note from Duke Almodovar de Rio, the Spanish minister of foreign affairs, to Judge Day, the then United States Secretary of State, dated Madrid, on August 7th. It is in this message that Spain previously accepted the terms of peace which, at Spain's request, had been set forth by President McKinley through Secretary Day, under the date of July 30 And it is by this message of Duke Almodovar de Rio and by the response of Secretary Day that Spain seeks to prove to the United States peace commission and to the tribunal of nations, that Spain's sovereignty over the Philippine Islands was reserved from any discussion here and protest from the United States.

BELIEVED TO BE MANLY.

A Negro Attacked and Badly Beaten in Norfolk—Arrived with Ex-Chief Melton, Bunting and Gilbert.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

NORFOLK, VA., November 12.—A negro, giving the name of George W. Brown, who arrived here to-day from Wilmington, N. C., via Newbern and Elizabeth City, was attacked and badly beaten in the postoffice this afternoon by several young men, who, it is said, took him to be Manly, the negro editor, who was driven out of Wilmington Thursday. A special officer went to the negro's rescue. The patrol wag on was dispatched to the scene and Brown carried to police headquarters for safe keeping. He claims New York as his home, and will be sent there to-night. Brown says that he came to Norfolk to-day on the same train with the late chief of police, justice of the peace, and another white man who were compelled to leave Wilmington.

It was stated to day that Manly was in Norfolk, but the police department made an investigation and found this to be untrue. He is said to be in Asbury Park, N. J.

SHOT BY A NEGRO TOUGH.

Two Soldiers of the Tenth Cavalry—Both Fatally.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

HUNTSVILLE, ALA., November 12.—Private Jackson, troop H, was instantly killed, and Corporal Garret, troop H, mortally wounded, late last night by "Horse" Douglas, a negro tough of this city. Both men belonged to the Tenth cavalry. No one saw the killing. Douglas was seen with the two soldiers in the tough part of the city, and his pistol had three empty shells. He is in jail, but denies the crime. The rumor has been circulated all during the day that the Tenth cavalry would lynch the prisoner, but the sheriff fears no such violence.

THE LAST DAY'S SESSION.

United Daughters of the Confederacy. Officers Elected—Convention Next Year in Richmond.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

HOT SPRINGS, ARK., November 12.—The last day's session of the convention of the United Daughters of the Confederacy was devoted to a discussion of the amendments to the by-laws and to the election of officers.

An amendment to the effect that no one could cast a vote except in one chapter, though she is a member of several, and that members could not hold two offices in one chapter, was adopted after a lively debate.

A letter from Mrs. Jefferson Davis, stating that she would prepare a biography of her daughter, Miss Winnie Davis, if the daughters of the Confederacy would agree to handle and dispose of the book and devote the proceeds to a monument to Miss Davis' memory was read. A motion prevailed that Mrs. Davis be instructed that the Daughters of the National Chapter would donate $100 toward the monument fund, and that the organization generally would raise the balance required for such a monument, but that they would sell the biography if Mrs. Davis would accept the proceeds for her individual benefit.

Mrs. Currie was re-elected to the presidency by acclamation.

Mrs. Forney, president of the Arkansas State chapter, was elected vice president; Mrs. Plane, of Georgia, second vice president; Mrs. Hickman, of Nashville, Tenn., recording secretary; Miss Meares, of Wilmington, N. C., corresponding secretary; Mrs. Thomas, of Atlanta, Ga., treasurer.

It was decided to meet next year at Richmond, Va.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov 12.—The official report to the navy department of the finding of the Maria Teresa was contained in the following cablegram received from Commander Craven, of the wrecking tug Potomac, which, had been ordered to Cat Island from Santiago:

"Potomac arrived. Maria Teresa near Bird Point, Cat Island, one mile off shore in two fathoms of water. Tide rising and falling inside. Temporary deck broken up; movable articles removed by natives. Vulcan not seen. Natives at work since Saturday."

The Potomac was ordered at once back to Cat Island with instructions to Commander Craven to take possession of the Teresa and drive off the wreckers who are looting the ship. He replied by cable that he would leave immediately and would arrive at the wreck in the morning. The fact that the Teresa, a vessel drawing in trim 25 feet of water, and waterlogged as she was when abandoned probably drawing nearly 30 feet should have been driven in 12 feet of water is regarded by naval officers as evidence of the great strength of the storm which caused her crew to leave her.

PHILIPPINES QUESTION.

Instructions of a Positive Character Drafted for the American Commissioners in Paris.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The Cabinet held a special session to-night at which instructions understood to be of a positive character bearing on the Philippine question, were drafted for dispatch to the American commissioners in Paris. These instructions were the outcome of the conference held early in the day and instruct the American representatives to admit of no further discussion as to the right to consider the disposition of the islands, and state that on that point the instructions already sent must stand, the only matter for discussion from the American view being the manner of giving over the islands.

There will be held in Frankfort, Ky., the first Monday in December, a State convention of Kentucky growers of tobacco, when the initial steps will be taken to dissolve the trust recently formed to control the plug tobacco trade.

Admiral Schley having asked again for sea service, has been promised the command of the Eastern squadron which will be re-established in a short time with some of the finest cruisers in the navy, to exhibit the American flag creditably to the European nations.

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE.

The Killing of J. W. Newton by His Father-in-Law.

By Telegraph to the Morning Star.

FRANKFORT, KY., November 12.—County Judge Moore dismissed the murder charge against Sergeant Perkins, who killed his son-in-law, J. W. Newton, Thursday night. County Attorney Polsgrove made a statement that proof showed that Newton betrayed his wife before marrying her and recently betrayed her young sister. Polsgrove said he would not prosecute any man under similar circumstances. The large crowd in the court room cheered the attorney when he made his statement and this broke into wild applause when Judge Moore said that the case was plainly justifiable homicide, and told Perkins to go to his family a free man.

A dispatch to the London Observer from Berlin says the German imperial party will not land at any Spanish port, owing to Spain's interpretation of the visit as a manifestation of sympathy.

The German steamship Senior, from Santiago, with guns taken off the Spanish cruisers Teresa, Vizcaya and Oquendo, and the Colon's safe, arrived at Norfolk yesterday and entered at the custom house.

The weekly bank statement shows the following changes: Surplus reserve, decreased $4,011.250; loans, increase $9,022,300; specie, decrease $1,022 300; legal tenders, decrease $2,001,100; deposits, increase $7,921,600; circulation, increase $155,300. The banks now hold $15,011,300 in excess of the requirements of the 25 per cent. rule.

The Eskimo's "Huskie."

The wild dog, uninfluenced at all by association with man, is typical of nothing but the wolf, and in the circumpolar ice he is found in numbers roving over the fields of snow and ice, frequently in company with the wolves. The Eskimos have taken their wild creatures and by a rude process of selection and training they have developed the "huskie," a colloquial abbreviation of the word Eskimo. These animals represent a type of dog but little removed from the wolf—hardy, vicious, swift of foot and keen of eye. They have been trained to haul sledge loads of goods across the snow and ice, and this comes as natural to them now as for a pointer to point. They possess the blood of the wolf, however, in their veins—the taint of the jackal. At the first opportunity they will run away and join the wild dogs and deteriorate rapidly in their company.—George E. Walsh in North American Review.

SYRUP OF FIGS
